

Dear Friends,

There's something we don't say often enough: thank you. Thank you for showing up, week after week, for one another. For the phone calls and the casseroles and the sweet faithfulness that doesn't make headlines but holds everything together. That is the real work of this community, and it is beautiful.

Lent is a good season to notice it. The slow, ordinary, holy work of being the church together, and also to take one small step or stitch in strengthening that work, too. Pick up the phone, write a card, express your gratitude, your support, your love.

We have some good things to look forward to – The Hill Country Samaritans' community lasagna dinner, and our sermons are now available online (with great audio!) on the website. Small things, maybe. But they're ours, and we're grateful.

Blessings on your week. See you Sunday.

Grace and Peace,

Rob and Elaine
